Editors’ Responsibilities
All manuscripts are evaluated by peer referees. Evaluations are anonymous. Authors are notified as soon as a decision is reached to accept or reject a manuscript. Acceptance may be offered on the condition that revisions be undertaken. Rejection may be outright or with the possibility of reconsideration after revision, which may entail a new round of evaluations.

Authors’ Responsibilities
Authors, and not the German Archaeological Institute, are responsible for the content of their papers, for the accuracy of quotations and their correct attribution, for the legal right to publish any material submitted and the appropriate handling of issues of coauthorship, and for submitting their manuscripts in proper form for publication. Authors bear the responsibility for securing written permission, when necessary, for figures, tabular materials, or any other material protected by copyright laws. The author must submit written permission from anyone whose unpublished works are cited or used. Evidence of such permission must accompany a final submission. A manuscript submitted to our journal must not be under consideration by any other journal or publication medium at the same time, or have been published elsewhere. After a manuscript has been accepted, and before it is published, the author or authors (in cases where papers are coauthored or jointly authored) will be asked to sign copyright-release forms, which must be received before actual publication takes place.

Submissions
Manuscripts should be sent to:
KAAK des Deutschen Archäologischen Instituts
Redaktion
Dürenstr. 35-37
D - 53173 Bonn
Redaktion@kaak.dainst.de
Submissions can be made either electronically or as paper copy. Acknowledgment of manuscripts upon receipt does not imply their acceptance.

Page Proofs
Page proofs - as pdf or as paper copy - are sent to the senior author of a manuscript or to the senior author’s designee, who checks them for typographical errors. Authors should mark their changes clearly. No text may be rewritten at this stage, but editorial errors may be corrected, and significant new data or an absolutely essential correction sometimes may be added.

Reprints
The authors will receive 10 reprints of the article and a pdf for personal use.
Sections of the Manuscript
Each of the following sections of the manuscript should be on a separate page or should start a new page. Arrange the parts of the manuscript in the following order:

Title (number as page 1)
English abstract (and abstract in a second language)
Text
Acknowledgments (should immediately follow end of text)
Appendix or appendixes (begin new page)
References Cited (begin new page)
Notes (begin new page)
Figures
Tables (separate page for each)

Abstract
An abstract must accompany all articles (in English and one second language). The abstract should not exceed 200 words in length. It should be a factual summary of the contents and conclusions of the paper, refer to new information that is being presented, and indicate its relevance.

Textual Elements
In-Text Reference Citations
In-text year citations always immediately follow the name(s) of the author(s). Use citation with pages, figures, or tables specified, e.g.:
(Smith 1977: 3), (Jones and Wilson 1971: Figure 2), (Johnson et al. 1970: Table 1), (Taylor 1964: 23, 72–78) or Smith (1977: 3), Jones and Wilson (1971: Figure 2), Brown (1968: 533–534), Johnson et al. (1970: Table 1), Taylor (1964: 23, 72–78)

Tables
Authors should present tables as a separate file generated by a recent version of a common word-processing program supported on both the Macintosh and Windows platforms. Tabular presentation of data should be used sparingly.
When constructing a table, keep in mind the physical limitations of the journals' size. A table with more than 10 to 12 columns will often have to be placed sideways on the journal page; wider tables will need to be broken up or set in reduced type.
Every table must be cited in the text, beginning with Table 1 and continuing sequentially; do not abbreviate the word "Table." Examples: (Table 1), (Tables 1 and 2), (Tables 1–3), (Tables 2, 3, and 7), "As illustrated in Table 1"

Figures
All illustrative materials are referred to as "Figures"; the KAAK publications do not use "Plates," "Maps," or other such terms. Authors are responsible for supplying figures in a camera-ready state (e.g., original drawings, PMTs, photographs) sized to fit within a standard folder. Whenever possible, authors should provide the figures in electronic form. TIFF files are preferred for most line drawings and JPEG for most photographs. When sending TIFF or JPEG files, the output resolution should be set to at least 300 dpi at the size at which they are to be published. Most figures are reduced before publication. The maximum dimensions of a published figure are 15.5 cm by 21 cm.
Use Arabic numerals and number all figures sequentially in the order cited in the text. Provide a succinct caption for each figure. Place all captions together on a separate page or pages. Refer to the following examples of figure captions for placement of essential elements.

Every figure must be cited in the text and must be numbered sequentially in the order it appears, using the following form. Do not abbreviate the word "Figure." Example: (Figure 2), (Figures 2–5), (Figures 1 and 2), (Figure 7a–f), (Figures 1, 2, and 5), "As shown in Figure 5..."
