OVERVIEW

To face the challenge of the illegal international trafficking of antiquities, the Horizon 2020 project NETcher was initiated by HiSoMA, CNRS, Lyon with six objectives:

Defining the state of play of current and past initiatives.

Setting up a social and a digital platform to create a lively international and multidisciplinary network of practitioners with shared convictions, values and protocols, and enhance their active cooperation and experience.

Training stakeholders by organising training modules to share best practices, protocols and innovative technologies with security forces, cultural heritage specialists, art market, professionals, policy makers, etc.

Managing a Social Platform as a unique entry point for any actor that needs tools, data, and documents on the issues tackled by the NETCHER project.

Defining an international framework involving academia, the security forces and the knowledge ecosystem to co-create a transnational and interdisciplinary working framework on best practices and toolkits, on protocol assessment for the inventory of cultural goods, but also to check the legitimacy and track the history of cultural goods, and share alert information.

Raising awareness among art curators, galleries, collectors, dealers, local, national and European public authorities and the general public about the consequences of illegal trafficking of cultural goods.
